VERY CURIOUS FRYING PAN

History. At the Cluny museum in Paris is a very interesting relic, of which this is the history. It appears that, one day, a year or so ago, the curator of the museum happened to visit a small restaurant in the suburbs of Saint Denis, in which the same room served for dining room and kitchen. While waiting to be served the curator's eye was caught by a fryingpan of most unusual appearance that hung upon the wall. He took it down, carefully removed some of the soot with which it was covered, and made out part of an inscription. What he found interested him so much that he bought the old pan.

When it was properly cleaned, it was found to bear the arms of France and Navarre, surrounded by the chain of St. Louis and the cord of the Order of St. Esprit, and this inscription as well:

"Here lies the magnificent Prince King Louis XIV., king of France and Navarre. Requiscat in pace."

It was the plate that had been fastened to the coffin of Louis XIV. When the burial vaults of the royal family in the populace in 1793, it had been wrenched from the cuffin, fitted with a handle, and turned into a frying-pan.

The relic may now be seen in the Cluny museum. The handle has been removed, but three holes show where t was attached.

SAY "SOFT DRINK" DEALERS FAVORED

WILLIAMS COMMITTEE TOLD OF AL LEGED CONNIVANCE IN KNOX.

Deputy Sheriffs and Others State That Dealers Were Notified in Advance When Raids Were to Be Made.

Knoxville.—The Williams legislative alleged actions of J. Parks Worley, revenue agent, and his local attorney, Roy Johnston, spent a busy day in the su-preme court room. Through the testimony of deputy sheriffs and others, efforts were made to show that "soft drink" dealers against whom distress warrants had been issued at the request of the revenue agent or his attorney, had been notified in advance as to when raids would be made.

One of the deputy sheriffs swore that with the co-operation of Revenue Agent Worley and Attorney Johnston that the soft drink stands of Knoxville, some 300 in number, could be put out of busi-

Deputy Sheriff E. G. Thomas was the first witness who was questioned regarding a large umber of distress warrants placed in the hands of Sheriff Bolt about two years ago. The deputy testified that the wararnts were given Bolt by Attorney Johnston and about $15,000 collected on them from soft drink stands. Since that time, said Thomas, it has been customary to issue a number of distress warrants about every three mouths. The last batch of warrants were turned over January 1, but were not served until a week ago.

Thomas swore that as a usual rule the parties upon whom the distress warrants were served acted as if they knew they were coming.

In a number of instances the witness testified that soft drink stand men had asked him when the warrants were coming. In most instances, the officers, said witness, could find nothing to attach and the service did not amount to anything. For this reason he had obtained the impression that the soft drink stand men had been notified.

ELECTION FRAUD CHARGED.

Madison Countians Accused of Stealing Ballot Boxes.

Jackson,-J. D. Hunt, S. H. Neff and J. H. Price, the trio indicted by the criminal court grand jury, charged with the theft of a part of the Madison counelection returns a few days after the election last November, may be placed on trial in the criminal rourt a: an early date.

The indicted men protest that they are innocent of the charge brought against them, and are said to be anxious for a speedy trial. The news of the grand jury's action in returning the indictments created a small sensation in Jackson. The true bills were made returnable at the May term of court, and the jury's action was supposed to be a court secret action until capiases had been issued and the indicted men arrested, but through some unknown channel the news leaked out. The trio indicted accepted the report without question, and declared that they were ready for trial at once.

REVENUE RAIDERS BUSY

Moonshiners Arrested and Giant Distilleries Destroyed.

Nashivlle,-The revenue raiders have seen giving the moomhiners very little rest this winter. The field force under Revenue Agent Knox Booth has been particularly alert and active in the last few months. In addition to the giant distillery seized by Special Employe Tyler and Deputy Collector Porter in Grundy county, Deputy Collector W. P. Seaton reported to Agent Booth the de struction of two complete outfits in Monroe ocunty. At one of the stills Officer Seaton arrested Rovert Carver as the operator.

Injunction Sought By Nashville Capitalists Against Officials Comprising State Funding Board. State has Power.

Nashville.- Upon motion of the com plainants to secure a temporary injunc tion, the hearing in the suit filed by capitalists against the officals composing the state funding board came up before Chancellor Allison. Before any arguments were heard the chancellor announced that he had long since made up his mind on the question and that he was thoroughly familiar with the bill before the court, and that he could at once deliver an opinion. He said in substance:

"The state, acting in its sovereign capacity, has power outside of the constitution to contract with its citizens that it will not itself nor permit its creatures to assess for taxation its obligations held by its citizens, agreeing to repay them with interest. ing Sunday Morning Blaze.

Nashville.—The mystery surrounding the origin of the fire which did $5,000 damage to the store of S. H. Kress & Co. Sunday morning and which at one time threatened the downtown business district, was cleared when police officers carried Clifford Alexander, aged 6, and Martin Miller, aged 7, to the police station and secured their confessions to having fired the building. The boys stated that they were returning from Sunday school when Clifford Alexander concluded to expend his last two pennies for matches. The youngsters then continued their homeward way and when passing down the alley to the rear of the store spied a piece of paper sticking from under the door. In a spirit of fun they ignited the paper and then proceeded home later returning to watch the firemen fight the flames. Th piece of paper carried the blaze to a pile of trash which had been swept up at the close of Saturday's business. The entire town fire department worked for two hours to keep the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. The they were released.
